The Crazy Quilt.

[D. T. Highmore.]

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light
What you failed to perceive by the twilight's last gleaming;
A crazy concern that through the long night
O'er the bed where you slept was so saucily streaming!
The silk patches so fair,
Round, three cornered and square,
Give proof that the lunatic bed quilt is there.
Oh, the crazy quilt mania triumphantly raves,
And the maid, wife and widow are bound as its slaves.

Bill Nye on the Thinker and His Think.

[Jamestown Sun.]

Thought, however, must be coupled with energy and industry, or it may come to naught. Many thoughts protrude into the moist spring air only to be gnawed off by the cut worm of neglect or slowly eaten by the squash bug of idle speculation. I once knew a man whose brain was one of the most active of his time, and yet his name is not known beyond the limits of his own school district. He had a fine, scholarly mind, yet his liver was torpid. To show how nature delights to deal with incongruities, I need only say that although this man was a poet and an artist in his mind, he ate pie with a knife and finally died in obscurity. He was not practical with all his greatness, and he walked down the long vista of life holding up his pantaloons by a single nail! How often is this the case. Why should men with the greatest mental endowments be almost prone to gastric eccentricities! And yet it is so. I am that way myself.

Turning the Tables.

[By Jingo.]

A man lent near a high board fence,
To weed an onion bed;
With back turned to the goat immense,
Which quickly at him sped.

The goat flew on with lowered head
To butt with force immense;
(But this incident isn't going to end in the regulation way, for the man turned around quickly)
Caught Mr. Goat by the curling horns,
And tossed him o'er the fence!

A Meeting of Two Joneses.

[Chicago News.]

Col. A. M. Jones, chairman of the Republican state central committee, of Illinois, being in New York the other day, walked into the National Republican headquarters and introduced himself to Col. B. F. Jones, chairman of the National committee.

"I believe we must be of kin," said Col. A. Jones, pleasantly.

"Yes," replied Col. B. F. Jones," the name of Jones is such an uncommon one that whenever I meet a man by the name of Jones I am pretty well satisfied he is a cousin of mine. Where were you born, colonel?"

"In Jo Daviess county, Ill.," replied Col A. M. Jones; "and you?"

"In the romantic mountain regions of Western Pennsylvania," said Col. B. F. Jones, "where the jay bird sings in the lofty pine and the day laborer delves in the bowels of the earth."

"My native spot," rejoined Col. A. M. Jones, "was on the majestic prairies, where the wild goose flaps his wings and carols to the incipient cyclone, and the unfettered Hennepin canal purls merrily on its way to the sea."

"It seems, then," said Col. B. F. Jones, "that our native spots would not satisfactorily explain our consanguinuity."

"True," replied Col. A. M. Jones; "but what was your father's name?"

"His name was Jones," said Col. B. F. Jones.

"Indeed!" exclaimed Col. A. M. Jones; "and what was your grandfather's name?"

"Jones," replied Col. B. F. Jones.

"Singular coincidence!" cried Col. A. M. Jones, "that was my grandfather's name, and I am advised by the genealogical records, which I treasure among my family archives, that my great grandfather's name was Jones, also."

"And I," exclaimed Col. F. B. Jones, "have undeniable evidences that my great grandfather on the paternal side was a Jones, too!"

"Then, there can be no doubt we are cousins!" cried Col. A. M. Jones.

"None at all!" said Col. B. F. Jones.

"Cousin!" exclaimed Col. A. M. Jones, in a whirlwind of joy.

"Cousin!" echoed Col. B. F. Jones, in an ecstacy of delight.

The two Joneses fell on each other's necks.

And without stopping to make inquiry about the traditional strawberry mark each was supposed to wear upon his left arm, the two Joneses fell upon each other's neck and remained for two consecutive minutes in a lingering, languishing embrace.

Carving a Chicken.

[New York Sun.]

Dumley had been asked to carve the chicken, and he was struggling with it.

"What seems to be the matter, Mr. Dumley?" asked the landlady; "hasn't the carving knife a good edge?"

"Yes, madam," he replied, "but it won't have very long."

RESTORED TO LIFE.

Wonderful Preservation of an Apparently Dead Woman.

A Case of Suspended Animation Successfully Treated by British Physicians—Some Pertinent Suggestions.

[London Lancet.]

A remarkable case is reported by Dr. Ernest W. White, Senior Assistant Medical Officer to the Kent Lunatic Asylum at Chatham, near Canterbury. The patient was a woman, fifty-three years old, afflicted with that form of insanity known as melancholia. She had tried to kill herself before admission into the asylum, and made several attempts to take her life after being received into the institution. Finally she succeeded in escaping the watchfulness of the attendants who had frustrated her previous efforts at self-destruction, and hid herself in a bath-room, where she was found hanging to a ladder by a cord formed of portions of a dress, eight minutes after she had been seen alive by another patient.

When cut down she was apparently quite dead. Animation was so completely suspended that there was no symptom which enabled the medical men present to distinguish her condition from that of real death. This is the remarkable feature of the case. So far as the doctors could see the woman was dead. The skin was ashy pale, the surface temperature very low, the lips were livid and the eyes dilated and insensible to the action of light; there was no pulse at the wrist or temples; no definite heart-beat could be detected even by the stethoscope; respiration had absolutely ceased, and unconsciousness was complete. Even the application of galvanism failed to contract the muscles. If the woman had been a criminal who had suffered the extreme penalty of the law, the physicians would doubtless have been justified by the symptoms in pronouncing her dead; yet she is alive to-day, and not only well physically, but fast recovering from all mental derangement.

Dr. White and his assistants wisely refused to act upon appearances. They gave their patient the benefit of the doubt in their minds, although that doubt was very slight. Resort was had to artificial respiration according to what is known in medicine as the Silvester method. The movements were performed slowly—only ten times a minute—but about ten minutes after they were begun an exceedingly feeble attempt at natural respiration was noted, and very weak pulsations of the heart were perceived by the aid of a stethoscope. Ten minutes is a long time to wait for the first signs of returning life, and it is to be feared that in many cases of apparent death, especially by drowning, the measures necessary for resuscitation are not continued long enough to rekindle the smoldering spark of life that remains in the body. There can hardly be too much patience or perseverance. In this case artificial respiration was steadily maintained for two hours before the natural breathing was sufficiently established to dispense with assistance in this way. If it had been abandoned earlier the woman would have probably died, notwithstanding her partial restoration to sensibility.

We need not follow the treatment in detail. The patient became imperfectly conscious about eleven hours after the act of strangulation, and in the course of a fortnight was in good bodily health. She lost her melancholy illusions and became cheerful, looking back at her attempt at suicide with horror. For two days from the time of hanging, however, her memory was a complete blank.

This extraordinary case is interesting in several aspects. The complete simulation of death suggests a possibility that physicians may sometimes themselves be deceived as to the fact of death, especially careless practitioners or those of comparatively limited information. We have already referred to the lesson which it teaches of the need of steadfast and hopeful perseverance in efforts to restore those who have apparently lost their lives by strangulation or drowning. It would appear that artificial respiration is more useful and effective when the movements are performed slowly than when they exceed ten a minute. This is an important point for those to remember who are called upon to render first aid to the injured. Finally, this remarkable occurrence may will lead to speculation as to the many stories which have been published of the restoration to life of men who have apparently suffered death by hanging on the gallows.

It is probable that fully seven minutes had elapsed between the moment of the act of suspension and the time when the woman was cut down. Who can say that similar measures might not have brought about a resuscitation if she had remained hanging twice as long? And might not a strong man possess the potential ability to recover, with like assistance, from the effects of strangulation lasting half an hour? Who can now assert, with confidence, that a convict with a neck unbroken, cut down after hanging thirty minutes, and turned over to friends having all the resources of modern medical science at command, might not be called back to existence in this world?

Sumatra Cannibalism.

[Gentleman's Magazine.]

A friend of the writer's, who for more than forty years has been in the employment of the Dutch Government, bears personal witness to the prevalence of the custom in Sumatra up till recent times. He was once making scientific investigations in the interior of that island, and was being entertained in the most hospitable manner by the native Rajah, or chief, of the place he was then in. A feast had been made to which he was bidden, and to which he went, taking his own native servant with him. The banquet had proceeded for some time without interruption, which at last, as a crown of the feast, a beautiful brown roast joint was brought from the back of the house to the open airy place where the repast was being held. This was cut up without remark and handed round, and the Dutch gentleman was on the point of eating his portion, having raised part of it to his lips, when his servant rushed forward and stopped him, saying: "Master, master, do not eat, it is a boy." The chief, on being questioned, admitted, with no small pride at the extent of his hospitality, that hearing that the white man would feast with him, he had ordered a young boy to be killed and cooked in his honor, as the greatest delicacy obtainable, and that the joint before them was the best part, the thigh.

Omaha, Council Bluffs & Chicago.

The only line to take for Des Moines, Marshalltown, Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Dixon, Chicago, Milwaukee, and all points East. To the people of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Washington and California, it offers superior advantages not possible by any other line.

Among a few of the numerous points of superiority enjoyed by the patrons of this road between Omaha and Chicago, are its two trains a day of DAY COACHES, which are the finest that human art and ingenuity can create; its PALACE SLEEPING CARS, which are models of comfort and elegance; its PARLOR DRAWING ROOM CARS, unsurpassed by any; and its widely celebrated PALATIAL DINING CARS, the equal of which cannot be found elsewhere.

At Council Bluffs the trains of the Union Pacific Ry. connect in Union Depot with those of the Chicago & Northwestern Ry. In Chicago the trains of this line make close connection with those of all Eastern lines.

For Detroit, Columbus, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Toronto, Montreal, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and all points in the East, ask the Ticket Agent for tickets via the

Address, THE TIMES PUBLISHING CO., Victoria B. C.

BY THE Queen's command a large and handsome chair of polished granite has been placed by the side of a private road at Balmoral as a memorial of the Duke of Albany. That road was one of his favorite walks.

THE Chinese Government are not unmindful of the services of the late Gen. Gordon, and have offered a contribution towards the erection of a suitable memorial to his memory. General Li Hung Chang has personally given $1,000 to this purpose.

TORONTO Telegram: The report of the Chinese Commission appears to be precisely the kind of report that the Government desired, and we may make up our mind that the Government does not intend to put laws on the statute book excluding the Chinese.

SOME of the American baseball players get nearly as large a salary for their services as do Cabinet Ministers. The New York Club give O'Rourke, the pitcher, $6500, he having refused $4000 offered him by the Bostonians. Mullaney, of Cincinnati, gets $5000 for "pitching." In fact the lowest salary paid foots up to $2000.

THE Dominion Government have made the postmaster of the House of Commons a Senator to fill the vacancy in New Brunswick caused by the death of Senator Muirhead. What Mr. Pojrier's special qualifications as a legislator may be we cannot say, but we should think that the distribution of letters was not a kind of training that would fit him for the position to which he has been elevated.

IT is not often that a king appears in person in any of his courts, though theoretically he is always present. But the King of Italy recently figured in a police court at Rome, having appeared voluntarily to testify in behalf of one of his subjects who was arraigned for injuring a child. The king witnessed the accident and was satisfied that the cartman's horse was running away at the time, and upon his testimony the accused was released.

MR. CAMERON, of Huron, has introduced a much needed measure of electoral reform into parliament, which ought to be accepted by the House. It introduces the principle of making of corrupt violations of the electoral law a criminal instead of a civil offence as heretofore. For various offences, specified maximum terms of imprisonment, are provided. The failure of money fines as a restrictive influence upon currupt practices at elections has been manifest; inasmuch as the political party which can afford to bribe, can afford to buy off from personal loss, the agents of that bribery. As a consequence, the fine failed to check the offence it was intended to cure; because it fell upon a party's purse instead of an individual's. Another important provision is, that to promise assistance or subsidies from the Dominion with a view of influencing the elections, is declared an act of corruption. The abuse, of an unseated member retaining his seat pending an appeal, is also removed. These and a score of new provisions are contained in his bill to consolidate and amend the Dominion election law.

IT is now fifteen years since Sir Samuel W. Baker entered on the Khedive's expedition avowedly as the first step to suppress the slave trade. The difficulties with which that expedition was beset are minutely related by General Baker in his book entitled "Ismailia." None of these difficulties have been removed. The Nile is still as uncertain and treacherous as ever, its obstructions have not been removed, and there is the same great desert between Berber and Khartoum. But there is this great difference between 1870 and 1885. In these fifteen years the tribes that roam this desert and make Khartoum and these other places their home, have been supplied with the modern implements of warfare and have become experts in the use of them, which does not seem to have been sufficiently taken into account. If Great Britain abandons her attempted control in Egypt, France and Germany, with perhaps the co-operation of Italy, will supply the place. The Egyptian loan is held largely in England and France, but to a considerable extent in Germany and Italy, the payment of which neither will ever consent to forego. Each realizes the need of finding new markets for its products. In a few years there will be a railway across this desert.

FINISHED THEIR WORK.

The Colonist is this morning compelled, and reluctantly, no doubt, to put another version of the Coal Harbor situation before its readers. In reply to a telegram from the Hon. Mr. Smithe, asking the meaning of the withdrawal of the engineers from the railway extension, Mr. Van Horne replied as follows:

"MONTREAL, 14th March.

"TO HON. MR. SMITHE:—Engineers under Rogers withdrawn because they had finished their work, which was simply location of line. Remaining engineering work will be completed by other engineers after Dagas (Rogers?) plans are received and location of structures decided upon.

"W. C. VAN HORNE."

The withdrawal of the engineers, which must of necessity take place when the work was completed, was eagerly seized hold of by the Colonist to depreciate Coal Harbor and create doubt and distrust in the public mind. Although quite transparent, the trick was in a measure successful; and for a day or two past all sorts of wild and exaggerated rumors have been flying around, some of the reports even going so far as to say that the railway had been taken possession of by the Government, and the proposed extension would, as a matter of course, never be constructed. The Colonist editor did not himself believe the absurdities for which he alone was responsible, and now, having accomplished his object, he coolly publishes an authoritative refutation of his own statement, with as much non chalance as though he were correcting some other person's falsehoods. It was apparent to every person that the preliminary work of Major Rogers and party must terminate sooner or later. Even Mr. Hamilton's work must soon come to an end, and if he should be re-called to Montreal, for consultation on the plans that he has been preparing, another opportunity will be given our contemporary to make itself ridiculous by uttering alarming and sensational rumors that a few weeks subsequently it will be compelled to recant. That journal never apologizes for its offences. Neither does it learn wisdom from experience; and hence it is not deterred from uttering untruths from having been repeatedly caught in the act.

The injury done by the editor of the Colonist, in giving wings to such flimsy and unwarranted reports, rebounds on the Province, not in any particular section, but as a whole, as we find by our exchanges that what is known as the "Moodyville telegram" was eagerly dispatched over the wires by the same person, who is press agent in this city. The veriest novice can at once understand that such statements have the effect of preventing men of capital and desireable immigrants from coming to this country. Journalists who are not blindly prejudiced, would never stoop to try and throw cold water on enterprises which must, if successful, be a lasting benefit to Burrard Inlet, as well as to the cities of Victoria, Nanaimo and New Westminster. The fact is, as has been before remarked, that if there is only room in this fair Province for one city, then our country is not what we claim it to be. Our contention has always been that there is scope for many more.

OUR ITALIAN ALLIES.

Of all the great powers, England was the only one that was cordially with the Italians in their struggle for independence and unity, though, in the end, victory crowned their efforts through advantage taken of surrounding complications rather than through any direct aid rendered from any quarter. Years, however, before Victor Emmanuel's kingdom had attained the dimensions it was destined to assume before his death, an event had happened which tended more than anything else to give his government a place in the councils of Europe. That was the adhesion, by Cavour's advice, of the Sardinians to the cause of the allies in the war against Czar Nicholas. The great statesman, though he did not live to see the fabric that he founded completed, had the satisfaction, from which his foresight drew his own inferences, to see the Sardinian contingent in the Crimea distinguishing itself by courage and discipline. Then first the nascent realm of United Italy made itself a name among the warring nations of Europe and took a stand which, in a few years, developed into the position of one of the six great powers. Italians cannot forget that side by side with British regiments they checked the oppressive advance of Russia in Europe and laid the basis of an influence and reputation, which a little before seemed but the dream of a visionary.

Certainly the unanimity with which the Italian press and people have welcomed the order to march to England's help is a remarkable expression of national good will. England would be foolish to undervalue such offers of friendship. How far it is prompted by mere ambition, and that desire for expansion which has taken hold of the continent, is not for her to ask. Italy has heartily engaged to give all needed assistance, and the engagement has been quickly followed by action. And rarely has aid been offered in more kindly or flattering terms. While Italy remains in that mood, England will not be isolated, and if it changes to aversion or distrust, it will be England's own fault.

LORD WOLSELEY, who is suffering with inflamed eyes, has been advised to pass the summer in Cyprus to benefit them, and his general health, which has been much shattered, by over-exertion and anxiety. Should he be compelled to do so, the temporary command of the army at Korti will probably fall upon either Generals Buller or Wood, either of whom are competent to fill the responsible office.

BE JUST BEFORE YOUR GENEROUS.

We would fain hope that the report of a sermon in yesterday morning's Standard was an incorrect report. We would prefer to believe that the sentiments professedly enunciated are not entertained by the clergymen of the city of Victoria, because we believe they are not in accord with the facts upon which the people of this city and province have based their opinions, and which are better known to people than they can be to pastor. A merely sentimental view of the Chinese evil will not accomplish anything in opposition to the stern logic of established facts. The Chinese evil is not a religious question. It is a moral, social, utilitarian problem, that must be settled at the ballot box or not at all. It is not a question of converting or christianizing the followers of Confucius, or elevating them in the scale of humanity; but it is a question of the survival in this Province of the debasing tendencies of a deplorable infidelity, and a social serfdom that are inimical to the best interests of the country, and the race whose heritage this Province is. It is the duty of the pulpit to Christianize them if it can, to citizanize them if it will; but it is a problem for our statesmen—a paramount duty—to preserve for our own people the land that we are all proud to call home. The Chinese are keeping tens of thousands of white men out of the country, and a means must be found to remedy that evil. When we have learnt to be just to ourselves we can then afford to be generous to others.

CABINET CHANGES PROBABLE

Among the rumors at Ottawa of changes in the cabinet, the most probable is that Sir David Macpherson, Minister of the Interior, will become Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario. Mr. Norquay's name has been mentioned in connection with this portfolio, and as Manitoba is demanding cabinet representation the position could not be offered to one better qualified to fill it, or more acceptable to the localities more directly under the supervision of that department. Sir Alex. Campbell is spoken of as a Justice of the Supreme Court, vice Judge Gwynne, and Sir Leonard Tilley as Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick for a second term. For the last named position, Mr. T. White is an aspirant, and all things considered he is perhaps the most eligible man in the ranks of the Government's supporters. Other changes of a minor character are freely canvassed, and the quid nunes around Government Hill are busily engaged rearranging and reconstructing a cabinet that is evidently beginning to feel the disintegrating effects of time.

LAUDABLE ECONOMY.

They have rather a peculiar way of running a Government on the Atlantic coast. In the speech of the Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia we find the following ingenuous paragraph:

"Pending the adjustment of the claims of the Province upon the Federal treasury, my Government has deemed it prudent—even at the cost of restricting the outlay upon some important public services—to endeavor to keep the expenditure within the means at their disposal."

We say this is "peculiar." In other provinces of this glorious Confederation, "claims" upon the Federal treasury are generally looked upon as so many incentives to a more liberal and unrestrained expenditure of the Provincial revenues. But the blue noses have still a lingering recollection of an old fashioned economy. They still retain the simplicity of a former age and are laudably striving to make both ends meet—pending a renewed application to the general government. But it is lamentable to think that their self-denial, in keeping the expenditure within the income, while the Dominion cow is being milked, may have a disastrous effect on the progress of that important commonwealth. Such rigid honesty and patriotic self-sacrifice will undoubtedly receive recognition at the hands of the Dominion Government. What a model for Provincial Governments!

CANADIAN PACIFIC TERMINUS.

The editor of the Colonist has done his best during the week to destroy, as far as in his feeble power lay, all the confidence in Coal Harbor as the terminus of the C. P. Railway, which was entertained by his friends in Victoria. It took him fully twelve hours, one day lately, to show to everybody with whom he is on speaking terms, a telegram saying that the C. P. R had withdrawn their engineers and had practically abandoned the Coal Harbor site; and the telegram, dated Moodyville, was shown by him in evidence. He had cut the signature of the telegram from off the sheet, which fact leads people to ask whether he was more doubtful of his Moodyville correspondent, or of his own sincerity. It turns out, as everybody with a little sense, who is not personally interested in opposing Coal Harbor, would at once see, that the rumors were all false. This the Colonist acknowledges to-day in a brief paragraph, but neither in a graceful nor a gentlemanly manner. The telegram to the Hon. Mr. Smithe, denying the report, on the authority of Mr. Van Horne, one of the vice Presidents of the C. P. R., would, in any newspaper of intelligence and honor, have called out a frank and honest apology.

THE $95,000 SUIT BY McNAMEE.

In this morning's Colonist we find the following:

This suit grows out of the action taken by the Walkem-Beaven Government in seizing the $10,000 deposit and converting into cash the plant etc., owned by the contractor and on the ground at the time of the seizure.

The above statement is as far from the truth as it is possible to be. The facts are these: The present Government seized the $10,000 deposit and made it part of the consolidated revenue of this Province during the year 1884. (See public accounts.) The same wise men, and not the Walkem-Beaven Government, converted into cash the plant, etc., by selling the Esquimalt dry dock plant, etc., to the Dominion Government, to get the wherewithal as a coaxer for Mainland members to support the famous Settlement Bill, by stating that the money to be received from the sale of the dock would be expended on the Mainland on public works over and above the ordinary sums of expenditure for such purposes. Surely there must have been a stranger at the bellows of the Colonist.

The surplus of the Equitable Life is larger than that of any other Assurance society in the world.

Its policies are absolutely incontestable after three years, and are free from the burdensome and technical conditions of those issued by other companies.

Its 10, 15 and 20 year semi-tontine policies are the best and cheapest issued by any Assurance Company.

The Equitable never contests a claim and all are paid immediately upon receipt of proofs of death.

It is the strongest, most liberal, and most progressive Life Assurance Company in existance.

—There was a fair attendance on Monday night to witness the magic lantern performance in the basement of the Methodist church. The young people were pleased with the entertainment.

—Small houses for renting purposes have been very scarce in this city, but several are now in course of construction. In addition to the eight being built by Mr. Penwill, Mr. Turner is erecting four neat cottages on Cook street.

—A Seattle paper says: Miss Lottie Selden, eldest daughter of Captain J. M. Selden, has gone to Victoria to enter the convent there.

—Freight arrived by steamer Princess Louise as follows: York & Lens, 11 hogs; Graves & Co, 25 head of cattle; Mrs Jordon, 90 bales of hay; Bornstein, 75 pcks hides.

—The steamer Princess Louise brought the following passengers to-day: Miss McLeod, Mrs Clark, Mrs Jardin, Mrs Oliver, Dayhne and family, U Nelson, Jas Robinson, Mr Galbraith, MPP, U Punell, Boyd, J H Todd, Selwood, Cameron, Pardon, Walter, Putz, Westcott, Walsh, Griffeth, Powers, Lawsen, McMartin, Talleton, Jenkins and others.

—Mr. Moore, who recently arrived at Kamloops from Nicola, informed the Sentinel, that the hills in the vicinity of his residence have been swarming with newly fledged grasshoppers since the latter end of Febnary.

—Steamer Eliza Anderson brought the following passengers: D W Alvenson, A Johnson and wife, Mrs McAuley, M C Pond, J Davies, A Ellick, F Adams and wife, A Knighton, G A Vogtlin, B M White, C L Thorne, L Knighton, Wm Manning, J McDonald, C F Clancy, A H Mallony and wife, W W Hall, 2 Indians.

—Dr. T. Whetham is back from Victoria, where he has spent the main portion of the winter, and is looking as though the climate agreed with him well. He informs us that Victoria presents the appearance of bustling activity, a condition at variance with the balance of the world. The rush is occasioned by the construction of the railroad. He states that business in the Sound towns, outside of Victoria, is painfully dull, and the places look monotonously quiet.—Spokane Review.

—Steamer North Pacific brought freight for the following: A Ofner, E G Prior, Burns & Co, Hutcheson & Young, W G Cameron, Todd & Son, D Spencer, Langley & Co, Brunswick C Co, W Heathorn, Strauss & Co, Belmont T Co, M R & Tye, Gutman & Frank, J Sehl, W Denny, Shears & Page, B Williams, Rev Holden, A Gregg & Son, W J Jeffrey, A B Gray & Co, A Bullock, W Rambolt, J Abrams, W Croft, York & Lentz, W Johnston, H Jewell, W G Norris, A B Francis, McLellan & Earle, C Clancy.

—A correspondent of the Calgary Herald, writing from Columbia Crossing, B. C., says: Since the thaw two trains per day have been running between the third siding and end of track, and the construction company appear to be doing their level best to provision their camps for the summer and so forward work of every kind connected with the road. There are fifty men at present employed on the construction of the new bridge here. It is not an iron bridge, as has been reported, but a wooden one.

—The following passengers arrived by the North Pacific: J W Kelly, F Obena, J Perroti, R Luclovic, P Howard, A Coatsworth, N J Johnson, J W Gregory, R H Marshall, J P Stewart and wife, P Barnett, C McFadden, J Elliott, R Pottal, F Lewis, J M Hogan, J McPhee, C N Thorndyke, J Buckhart, F Felton, H Mohon, T Innis, J C Overbeck, Mattie Hill, D W Bailey, and wife, L D Henderson, J H Kinney and wife, J D James, M Ficklestein, T Birmingham, R Frasier, S A Grayham, E A Booth, Jno. HOW BURNABY DIED.

Struggling with a Crowd of Arabs—The Sword against the Spear.

Mr. Burleigh, the war correspondent who was wounded at Abu Klea, has, under the inspiration of his hurt, written to the Daily Telegraph a thrilling account of the battle, and in it occurs this description of Colonel Burnaby's death, which must become historical:

"Still down upon us the dark Arab wave rolled. It had arrived within three hundred yards undiminished in volume, unbroken in strength—a rush of spearsmen and swordsmen. Their rifle fire had ceased. Other Arab forces surrounding us—the Mahdi's troops, plundering Bedouins and pillaging villagers from the river side—stood eager on the hill-sides watching the charge upon the British square. In wild excitement, their white teeth glistening and the sheen of their brandished weapons flashing like thousands of mirrors, onward they came, charging straight into our ranks.

"I was at that instant inside the square not far from the Gardner gun, when I saw the left face move somewhat backward. Colonel Burnaby himself, whose every action at the time I saw from a distance of about thirty yards, rode out in front of the rear left face, apparently to assist two or three skirmishers running in hard pressed. All but one man of them succeeded in reaching our lines. Colonel Burnaby went forward to his assistance sword in hand. As the dauntless Colonel rode forward he put himself in the way of a sheik charging down on horseback.

"Ere the Arab closed with him a bullet from some one in our ranks brought the sheik headlong to the ground. The enemy's spearsmen were close behind, and one of them suddenly dashed at Colonel Burnaby, pointing the long blade of his spear at his throat. Checking his horse and pulling it backward, Burnaby leapt forward in his saddle and parried the Moslem's rapid and ferocious thrusts. But the length of the man's weapon—eight feet—put it out of his power to return with interest the Arab's murderous intent. Once or twice Colonel Burnaby just touched his man, only to make him more wary and eager. The affray was the work of seconds only, for the savage horde of swarthy negroes from Kordofan and straight-haired tawny-complexioned Arabs of the Bayuda steppe were fast closing in upon our square.

"Colonel Burnaby fenced the swarthy Arab as if he were playing in an assault at arms, and there was a smile on his features as he drove off the man's awkward points. The scene was taken in at a glance. With that lightning instinct which I have seen desert warriors before now display in battle while coming to one another's aid, an Arab, who was pursuing a soldier and had passed five paces to Burnaby's right and rear, turned with a sudden spring, and this second Arab ran his spear point into the Colonel's right shoulder. It was but a slight wound. Enough, though, to cause Burnaby to twist around in his saddle and defend himself from this unexpected attack.

"Before the savage could repeat his unlooked for blow, so near the ranks of the square was the scene now being enacted, a soldier ran out and drove his sword bayonet through the second assailant. Brief as was Burnaby's glance backward at this fatal episode it was long enough to enable the first Arab to deliver his spear point full in the brave officer's throat. The blow drove Burnaby out of his saddle, but it required a second one before he let go his grip of the reins and tumbled upon the ground.

"Half a dozen Arabs were now about him. With blood gushing in streams from his gashed throat the dauntless guardsman leapt to his feet sword in hand and slashed at the ferocious group. They were the wild strokes of a proud, brave man dying hard, and he was quickly overborne and left helpless and dying."

ALONG THE LINE.

Heavy Freights—Rock Work—Tunnels—Other Information.

Freighting from Laggan to the Columbia costs eight cents per pound, and it is difficult to get transport at that rate. The railway from the Kicking Horse pass runs along the east bank of the Columbia to the First Crossing, and there the Columbia is bridged by at present a temporary bridge. Between the Crossing and the Beaver the line is on the west bank of the Columbia. The work on this portion of the road is heavy, but does not present many engineering difficulties. There is a great deal of rock work and two tunnels; but a great deal of the work being rock, work once constructed will require but little repair. Between Laggan and the Beaver there were seven tunnels constructed during the past season. The line enters the Beaver valley near its mouth and runs up the east side for some miles, where it is to cross by a high Howe truss bridge, thence to the summit, a distance of nineteen miles. From this to the second crossing of the Columbia, a distance of forty-three miles, there is a descent down the valley of the Ille Celle Waet river, now called the Moberly. At the second crossing of the Columbia there will be a large bridge. Here the railway line leaves the Columbia and commences the ascent of the Gold Range. The crossing of this range is by the Eagle Pass, where the work from the east terminates and connection is to be made with the Underdonk work from the west. The connecting point of the work from the east and west is to be Griffin Lake, sixteen miles west of the second crossing of the Columbia. During the past season there have been taken out 2,500,000 yards of earth and rock and half a mile of tunneling, besides a large number of bridges erected.

Obstructing Sidewalks.

Mr. W. Croft was charged this morning with having left some cases on the sidewalk. Defendant pleaded that he had received thirty cases, and of these he had removed twenty-four, but the remainder he was unable to remove at the time. Under the circumstances, the prosecution was withdrawn, defendant paying costs. Mr. Spencer, for exposing carpets on the sidewalks, was fined $10 and costs.

THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

The News of the Coast Done up in Small Parcels.

Lincoln county, W. T., has 25,000 sheep within its boundaries.

The mayor of Portland has vetoed the new electric and coal oil street lighting ordinance.

Three pupils in Dr. Brewer's school at San Mateo, Cal., are Hawaiian princes, nephews of King Kalakaua.

Laura Roundtree, a 15-year-old girl in Lewis county, W. T., killed a wildcat with a revolver one day last week.

Eugene Semple has gone on to Washington City, to further his individual chances for the position of Governor of Washington Territory.

Uncle Jeff. Wilcoxen, of Sacramento, well and favorably known to many people of Placer, and a property holder in that county, celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday on the 23d of February, and as a feature of the happy occasion, which his relations will long remember with pleasure, the good old uncle sat down and wrote out fourteen checks for $1000 each and sent them to his fourteen nephews and nieces respectively.

In Seattle on Saturday the "fancy" were gratified by an exhibition of the manly art in the Standard Theatre. Two of the contests were with soft gloves, but the third, between Billy Hall and Tommy Clancy, two amateur pugilists, was of a more serious character. The fight was for $100 aside, Hall agreeing to knock Clancy out in six rounds. He failed to do so, and the victory was awarded to Clancy. Several females graced the place with their presence.

Stephen W. Hovey died in Seattle last Saturday evening, after a long illness. Mr. Hovey was born in East Machias, State of Maine, in 1833. He came to the Pacific Coast in 1857, and entered the Puget Mill Company's employ at Port Gamble. He continued there (with the exception of five years spent in Seattle) to the time of his death, serving the company as cashier and the people as Legislator. He later went to merchandising in Seattle, and also into the steamboat business, becoming a prominent member of the Washington Company.

Interesting to All.

Nearly everyone is, or should be, interested in Insurance, either Fire, Life or Marine. The fearful ravages of the fire fiend and the attendant losses, should be always guarded against by taking out a Policy in the Royal or London & Lancashire Fire Insurance Companies, both of them in the front rank of British offices; noted as they are, for promptness and liberality in adjusting claims. With regard to Life Assurance, it is positively the duty of every man to make provision for old age or death; and he should see that the office he selects is in every respect a solid institution, such as that old established company, the Standard, of Edinburgh, with its accumulated funds of more than $30,000,000. No excuse can be urged now-a-days on the ground of expense, as the office referred to offers rates of premium and other advantages on a most liberal scale, within the reach of all. Marine Insurance should be carefully attended to by those having anything at risk afloat, no matter whether it is merchandise, personal effects, or even the vessel conveying them. This can be always arranged in the Union, or London and Provincial Marine offices, and as Messrs. Robert Ward & Co, Wharf street, Victoria, are the General Agents for these Fire Life and Marine companies, with full power to issue policies and settle claims, application should be made to them for any insurance required, and they will readily furnish full details with regard to rates of premium and other matters connected with the business. *

Besieged Kassala.

The Mudir of Kassala is a sorely tried man. He has been besieged by the Mahdi's forces for nine months, and as if this were not enough, he has had a number of wild beasts in captivity thrown upon his hands by the death of their owner. The trade in animals for zoological gardens has developed greatly of late years, the Soudan and Nubia being the main hunting grounds. One of the principal providers of wild animals for show was a Jew of Vienna named Kohn, who has brought to Europe at various times from Nubia a large number of lions, giraffes, antelopes and ostriches. He had collected a number of these shortly before Kassala was invested, and had them in the town at the time of the attack by the rebels. After a short time he died at the age of 72, and history has not yet recorded what became of the beasts.

Sincerity?

It must be amusing to the general public, while moving about the city, to observe the employment of Chinese by those who have been loud in protestations against them, either as immigrants or as people who should not be encouraged directly or indirectly. Our attention was called this morning to several Mongolians at work in the rear of the Colonist building. Gentlemen who advocate restrictive legislation ought, if sincere, to see that none of the objectionable class should be employed where they are in a position to prevent them.

Leach River Gold.

Mr. F. Roper, who has been mining at Leach river since last season, returned from that locality on Monday. He reports that he is running a ditch or tunnel from the river northward. Last season a small amount of gold of the finest quality was taken out. On his next visit to the city he expects to be able to exhibit some of the gold. If Mr. Roper can make the enterprise a success it will be of great benefit to himself and the country.

The Soudan Governorship.

LONDON, March 17.—British officials at Cairo are urging the Government to appoint Sir Wolseley governor-general of the Soudan. This is to reassure the natives who joined the Mahdi for fear the English would abandon the Soudan and place them at the mercy of the Mahdi unless they joined him now. The Government refuses to make the appointment, as it would prolong the British stay in the Soudan beyond the limits of the present intention of the Government.

An Irish Riot.

DUBLIN, March 17.—Portadown was the scene of a serious riot to-day. A body of nationalist rioters wrecked the houses of certain obnoxious persons. Bands of Orangemen paraded the streets and great excitement prevailed.

Advance in Prices.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The announcement of the settlement of the trouble in railway matters in the Southwest and of a probable advance in East-bound rates, is the basis for a moderate advance in prices this morning.

Guarding American Interests.

NEW YORK, March 17.—James R. Beard, Secretary of the Central South American Telegraph Co., states that he has received advices to the effect that the authorities of Mexico, San Salvador, and Nicaragua have posted guards at the cable landings of that company, and the following telegram from Secretary of State Bayard shows that the United States Government is determined to protect American property from injury:

TO JAMES A. SCRUMSER, PRES'T CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN TELEGRAPH CO. N. Y.

WASHINGTON, March, 16.—Telegram today sent to the United States legation, Guatemala, holding that republic responsible for injuries by its authority, or with its connivance, to cables or interests of United States citizens in Central America. Wachusett, now en route to Launion, duly instructed.

[Signed], BAYARD.

A Revolution Over.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Reliable advices state that the Panama revolution has ended.

Grant's Condition.

NEW YORK, March 17.—At the residence of General Grant this morning, Col. Fred. Grant stated that Dr. Douglas was mistaken in believing the General was asleep when the doctor left last night. The General dreads to be a burden upon any one, and closed his eyes and lay quiet until the physicians left the house, then he became restless and remained awake all night. This morning he has had no long sleep, but dozed a while sitting in easy chairs. Mrs. Sartoris will arrive in the steamer Baltic.

A Cow Boys Carnival.

DENVER, Col., March 17.—The situation at Springer, New Mexico, is unchanged since midnight. Large numbers of cowboys still remain in town, some of whom are very defiant. Troops will remain until quiet is fully restored.

A New Railway.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The construction of a new railroad from Butte City, Montana, through Pipestone pass, to form a connection with the Northern Pacific, is announced this morning. The road is to be of the standard guage, and 75 miles long, and will run through Gallatin and Silver Bow counties. It will be called the Montana Central. A number of San Francisco capitalists are interested in it.

An Australian Navy.

LONDON, March 16.—In the house of lords this evening the government stated that the admiralty had freely given advice and assistance to Australia for the formation of a colonial navy.

Becoming a Mason.

LONDON, March 16.—To-morrow Prince Albert Victor is to be initiated into Freemasonry. The Prince of Wales as master of the Royal Alpha Lodge will perform the ceremony.

Russia has Agreed.

LONDON, March 16.—Gladstone explained that England and Russia had agreed that no further advances should be made in Afghanistan. This agreement was based on an interchange of communications carried on through the British ambassador at St. Petersburg. The latest communication on the Afghan dispute received from the ambassador was that of March 5th; but to obviate any possible misunderstanding Granville, British Foreign Minister, on Saturday last wired his (Gladstone's) exact words to Thornton, asking him to ascertain whether the Russian Prime Minister endorsed as correct the statement made by Gladstone of an agreement reached with Russia. As yet no reply has been received. Gladstone said there had been no time to obtain the assent of the Ameer of Afghanistan to the terms of the arrangement made with Russia. "The expression agreement," said Gladstone, "conveys a somewhat fallacious idea of what has been obtained, I prefer 'arrangement.' The telegram sent by Granville on Saturday to Thornton was merely intended to ascertain whether our understanding of the details of this agreement or arrangement was correct. There is no question as to the substance." Hartington explained that the Russians occupy Katan and Akrobat and that the Afghans still occupy Penjdeh. He refused on the ground of public policy to make any further disclosures.

Providing the Funds.

BERLIN, March 16.—Baron Von Blockraeder is negotiating with other capitalists with a view to placing a new Russian loan. Baron Von Blockraeder is not only one of the most eminent bankers in Berlin, but is also the confidential adviser of Bismarck in financial affairs. His appearance in the market as the fiscal agent of Russia is therefore very significant, and would seem to indicate that war with England is seriously intended by Russia.

Rumored Fall of Kassala.

LONDON, March 15.—Special editions of several papers were published to-day, announcing, on the authority of a private telegram from Suakem, that Kassala had fallen and the garrison massacred. The report is not believed in official circles, as dispatches from Suakem, received to-day make no mention of such occurrence. Massowah advices to March 10 say no news had been received from Kassala since March 1.

Warlike Preparations.

TEHERAN, March 15.—A letter from Askabad, dated February 24, says: Communication between strangers and people in the outside world is closely supervised. Troops and stores are going forward daily, en route to Merv. The soldiers are previously blessed by priests, who tell them to fight valiantly against the Czar's enemies. Civilians and military men openly discuss the likelihood of a declaration of war with England. There is great excitement here. It is stated that 16,000 troops have been ordered to Merv. The railway from Kisjlarvat to Merv, is being pushed with the utmost rapidity. Great difficulty is experienced in inducing workmen to go to Merv, as they fear they will be killed by the British or Afghans. A letter from Sarakhs, dated March 2, states that 5 batallions of Russian infantry and three batteries of artillery are en route from Bokhara to Merv; and a small party of Cossacks recently attempted to traverse the Sulfikar defile, but were prevented by force.

Lumsden Reaches Herat.

TEHERAN, March 15.—It is reported that Sir Peter Lumsden has arrived at Herat, and Afghans are actively engaged in fortification of the city. Small bodies of Russians hold the wells and tracts between Parakehs and the Muhrghat river. There are several hundred Cossacks near Puhkikhatum, the most southerly point nearest Herat occupied by the Russians. The Russian forces occupying Merv consist of a battalion of infantry, a regiment of dragoons and some Cossacks. At Askabad there are about 8000 troops of all arms. One Russian brigade and a convoy of military stores are en route from Caucasus to Askabad. Afghans here believe an offensive and defensive alliance between England and Turkey would have the effect of alienating the Turcomans from Russian authority.

Affairs at Suakem.

SUAKEM, March 15.—General Ewart has arrived. Work on the Suakem-Berber railway has begun. Osman Digma has offered to give money and stop night attacks if the British return the body of his standard bearer. Firing last night was the heaviest and most continuous the British have been subjected to here.

To March on Khartoum.

ALEXANDRIA, March 15.—An Arabian paper reports that 15,000 men in Abyssinia are being prepared for an advance upon Khartoum.

War only a Question of Time.

NEW YORK, March 15.—A cable special to the Sun from London says: The Government has eaten leek twice within a week, without much improving the situation. The concessions granted to Bismarck simply proved the efficacy of Bismarckian bullying, and will whet but not satisfy German appetite. The submission to Russia, while more complete, is even less fruitful of good. The value of the statement of Gladstone that the Government is ready to fight unless the Russians retire is shown by the agreement. Russia will not retire one inch, she has gained her point, and means to keep it, and Gladstone will not risk a war to dislodge her. Nobody believes, however, that war can be prevented. The Russians are hurrying troops by all lines communicating with the Afghan frontier, and the English are rapidly massing their forces at the mouths of passes leading from India. Both English officials and the generals of the army in India have long been expecting these movements of Russians. General Roberts and other eminent soldiers have been, for months, informing Joseph Owen and other anti-Russian statesmen that Lord Dufferin's real mission was to counteract the foe whose dark ways he learned when ambassador at St. Petersburg. Another defect of the Gladstone agreement is that Afghanistan has not apparently been consulted, and this may engender suspicion. It is feared also that Russian gold has been at work, and passibly at an auspicious time the Russians may enter treason-opened gates at Herat. Then there will be war. Therefore the difficulty has been scotched, not killed. Diplomatic experts expect that the crisis will be again acute in June.

Canadian Dispatches.

To Guard the Fisheries.

OTTAWA, March 15.—The Government is considering a scheme to fit out armed schooners, to watch the fishing grounds of maritime provinces, and prevent American fishermen taking fish in Canadian waters.

A Slight Fire.

A fire occurred Monday morning in the frame building situated in the rear of the brick building occupied by Chu Chong & Co. It was caused by embers dropping on the roof and the fire would have proved serious but for the timely application of several buckets of water. This is the third or fourth time the roof has been ablaze caused by the chimney being too short to carry off the sparks and it is a source of very considerable danger. The immediate attention of the fire wardens is requested to remedy the defects and thereby prevent an extensive conflagration in this neighborhood.

Arm Broken.

A boy named Thomas Hodges, in the employ of Mr. Metcalf, butcher, while jumping from his cart to-day fell to the ground and the wheel, passing over his arm, fractured the bone. The broken limb has been set, and the young man will be incapacitated for some weeks.

To Test the Law.

It is reported that a prominent firm of Chinese merchants have telegraphed to Seattle to have a number of Chinamen sent over to this place in order to test the law lately enforced. Messages on the subject have also been sent to Ottawa.

MADE ONE.

A Little Romance from the Plains of Poland—Its New York Culmination.

[N. Y. Herald.]

The snows of last winter had not yet melted upon the plains of Poland and everybody in Warsaw was still wearing rubber boots and watching the thermometer, when Antoni von Ziolkowski and Catherine Dall met. He was a blithe opponent of the Russian Czar, and she was a blue-eyed maiden with the usual assortment of patriotic sentiments, which, according to Miss Porter, the novelist, all Polish ladies possess.

For the pair not to have fallen in love under these circumstances would have been contrary to all the precedents of modern light literature and accordingly they soon progressed so far that the size of the wedding ring was discussed. The inevitable obstacle arose in the shape of an aunt with whom Catherine lived. This lady had an unreasonable objection to a son-in-law who was constantly followed by detectives, as if who might at any time take a trip to Siberia without waiting to buy a return ticket, and she therefore sternly opposed the match. Catherine wept and Ziolkowski was very near kicking one of the detectives, which presumably would have sent him up the Vistula for ten days. This impulse was however soon conquered, and an elaborate scheme of elopement was prepared. The aunt, however, baffled it by selling her property and starting with the tearful Catherine for America. Ziolkowski at once ceased to conspire against the Czar and started for America.

So did detectives, who wanted to bring him back, as they preferred to have him stay at home, where they knew just what he was doing. The procession glided through Prussia in true opera bouffe style—Ziolkowski always arriving at a town just five minutes after the aunt and Catherine had departed, and the detectives always coming in ten minutes later, only to find that Ziolkowski had also gone on. When he reached Bremen he saw the steamer which bore the aunt and Catherine hull down in the ocean, and so disguising himself as an emigrant, he followed in the steerage of the next steamer. The detectives disguised themselves as common sailors and shipped before the mast of the next steamer, and so the chase continued.

Six weeks ago Ziolkowski landed in Castle Garden, disguised himself as a furrier and renewed his search for Catherine. He found her while her aunt was out shopping. Again they schemed, and on Saturday they eloped to Castle Garden and were married by Father Slattery, with Matron Theresa Lynch and Officer Peter Groden as witnesses. The detectives, misled by Ziolkowski's last disguise, went on across the continent and are now supposed to be on their way to China, where they will continue the search in the costumes of retired laundrymen from California.

SPEAKING SPANISH.

A Lost Parrot Establishes His Identity by Talking Pure Castilian.

[Washington Republican.]

A friend of Miss Jessie Horton, of No. 710 L street southeast, gave to her, about two years ago, an educated poll parrot. The bird spoke Spanish and English like a native of both countries, and was very mischievous. Miss Horton and the parrot became devotedly attached to each other, and the bird soon became familiar to the neighborhood. About four months ago, while Miss Horton was cleaning the cage, the parrot escaped. Miss Horton was very much grieved at the loss of her pet, and advertised large rewards for its recovery, but heard nothing of it. She did not give up the search for it, however, and in the course of her search saw almost every bird in the city.

About a week ago one of her friends told her that a colored man named Frank Guy had a parrot resembling hers. Guy is a tall colored man without hands, and keeps a small grocery at 125 Third street southeast. Miss Horton procured a search warrant, and yesterday Detectives Mattingly and Edelin served it. They went to Guy's place of business and saw the parrot. Guy stated that he purchased it at Richmond about four months ago. Several other persons corroborated his statement, saying that it was at the time of the excursion of the colored Chaldeans to that city. The detectives had some doubt about charging Guy with larceny, and took the parrot to Miss Guy for identification.

The bird was taken to her room, and as soon as he saw her began chattering and screaming with delight.

"Beautiful Jessie," he said, "scratch poll's head." "Look out, "I'm back," and other similar expressions. It then began calling "Mother" in Spanish, and, when it had stopped flapping its wings and became calm, carried on an animated conversation in the same tongue. This satisfied the detective as to the ownership, and the bird was taken to police headquarters, where it will be held until Guy is tried for the larceny of the bird. Guy's story is believed, and it is supposed that some one stole the parrot and took it to Richmond, where he purchased it. The bird is also attached to Guy, and when taken from him raised quite a disturbance with its cries. Guy was released on personal recognizance.

The King of the Cow-Boys.

(Ogallala (Neb.) Letter.)

The presiding genius of the town is Tucker, who runs a combination saloon and gambling-house. When any of the cow-boys get hard up they go to see Tucker. He gives his money liberally and freely to his friends. Tucker is a tall, fine-looking man, with an intelligent countenance. He affects long hair, a la Buffalo Bill, and prides himself on his fighting abilities. If a drunken cow-boy is disposed to have a shooting matinee or rough-and-tumble exercise he can always be accommodated by applying to Tucker, who agrees to do up the anxious individual in short order. When any disturber of the peace tries to invade the sacred precincts of the Cow-boy's Rest, as Tucker's saloon is affectionately called, the gentlemanly proprietor gives him his advice to either fight or have a drink. The festive and belligerent cow-boy adores Tucker on account of his generosity and grit, and he would stand by this popular border gambler through thick and thin. Any other man than Tucker would be liable to have his saloon completely demolished two or three times a week, but he always remembers his friends; no hungry man was ever turned from his door, and the cow-boys who have had substantial evidence of his good-will never forget the kindness. Tucker has many imitators, but he is the typical border paradox of gentleman and ruffian, and no man can compete with him in shrewdness and popularity.

Men of the Hour.

(Philadelphia Call.)

Mr. Blank—Well, my dear, I have become famous in spite of all your predictions.

Mrs. Blank—Famous!

"Yes, indeed; the Stumptown Bugle published my portrait under the heading "Men of the Hour.'"

"Did they get the hour right?"

"The hour right?"

"Yes, it is 2 a. m. generally."

Words of Warning and Comfort.

"If you are suffering from poor health or languishing on a bed of sickness, take cheer; if you are simply ailing, or if you feel weak and disjointed, without clearly knowing why, Hop Bitters will rarely cure you.

If you are a minister, and have overtaxed yourself with your pastoral duties, or a mother, worn out with care and work, or a man of business or labor, weakened by the strain of your everyday duties, or a man of letters toiling over your midnight work, Hop Bitters will most surely strengthen you.

If you are suffering from over-eating or drinking, any indiscretion or dissipation, or are young and growing fast, as is often the case,

"Or if you are in the workshop, on the farm, at the desk, anywhere and feel that your system needs cleansing, toning, or stimulating, without intoxicating, if you are old, blood thin and impure, pulse feeble, nerves unsteady, faculties waning, Hop Bitters is what you need to give you new life, health and vigor."

If you costive, or dyspeptic or suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels, it is your own fault if you remain ill. If you are wasting away with any form of kidney disease, stop tempting death, this moment, and turn for a—cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness, Nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter, or resident of,—a miasmatic district, barricade your system—against the scourge of all countries—Malaria, Epidemic, Bilious and Intermittent Fevers by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply, or sallow skin, bad breath, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, the sweetest breath and health. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

A Lady's Wish.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady.

"By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe."

☞ None genuine without a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Shun all the vile, poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

International & Colonial Exhibitions

ANTWERP IN 1885—LONDON IN 1886.

IT IS THE INTENTION TO HAVE A CANadian representation at the International Exhibition at Antwerp, commencing in May, 1885, and also at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London in 1886.

The Government will defray the cost of freight in conveying Canadian Exhibits to Antwerp, and from Antwerp to London, and also of returning them to Canada in the event of their not being sold.

All Exhibits for Antwerp should be ready for shipment not later than the first week in March next.

These exhibitions, it is believed, will afford favorable opportunity for making known the natural capabilities, and manufacturing and industrial progress of the Dominion.

House, Garden, &c, in the Country,
BUSINESS IN TOWN

WITHIN EASY WALKING DISTANCE OF Victoria, and only a little farther from the centre of Esquimalt, soon to be a scene of business and bustle.

FOR SALE

On easy terms on Cloverdale, Saanich Road, lots of one-half or one acre, more or less, with frontage on one or more highways, connecting with Saanich and Burnside roads. One of these highways, Bo'eskine Road, 80 feet, joins on Yates estate the Harriett Road of equal width, and leading to Victoria Arm. The principal highways have been slashed so that pedestrians can pass through. Soil good—clayey loam or black mould. Some excellent spots for nurseries or market gardens.

Reserves have been made on this tract for Church and Public school purposes.

Plans are to be seen at the principal land agencies in Victoria.

Appointments for being shown over the land can be made through the Post Office.

For further particulars or guidance, apply to
W. F. TOLMIE.
